

Description

We are excited to announce the availability of the new Han-Protect® solution. This is a size 3A connector which adapts a 5x20mm fuse to protect devices against overcurrent or a short circuit. This eliminates extensive fused terminal blocks and is an alternative for circuit breakers, enabling a reduction in cabinet size and reduced TCO

Links

- E-Shop

Specs

- |                       |              |                      |
|-----------------------|--------------|----------------------|
| ■ Sizes 3A            | ■ 4A         | ■ >100 mating cycles |
| ■ 5x20mm fuse         | ■ 24V        | ■ IP54               |
| ■ Red light indicator | ■ -25...+70C | ■ IEC 60664-1        |
|                       |              | ■ IEC 61984          |

Markets

- Energy
- Automation
- Machinery

Applications

- Control Cabinets
- I/O Connections
- Large Panels

Feature	Advantage	Benefit
---------	-----------	---------

- |                           |                                    |                                  |
|---------------------------|------------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| ■ Integrated Fuse         | ■ Easy access for fuse replacement | ■ Cost savings in servicing      |
|                           |                                    | ■ Reduced downtime               |
| ■ LED Light               | ■ Visual indicator for operation   | ■ Efficient troubleshooting      |
|                           |                                    | ■ Reduced downtime               |
| ■ PushPull compatible M12 | ■ Fast mating technology           | ■ Enables increased density      |
|                           | ■ No need for torque tooling       | ■ Reduced errors in installation |